U. S. Gives Sanctuary To Anti-Red

Seoul, Thursday (AP)—Jan Hajdukiewicz, a Pole who yesterday broke from his neutral nations team supervising the Korean truce and got U. S. sanctuary, told a news conference today he does not want to return to his Communist-dominated country.

Hajdukiewicz, who asked for and received American political asylum even as a plane warmed up to take him back to North Korea, told Allied correspondents in the press billet at Seoul that there is no freedom of speech in Poland.

"We cannot say anything," he declared.

Asked if an underground organization was operating against the Reds in Poland, he replied: "Of course."

Hajdukiewicz said he was "most afraid" for the safety of his mother and sister in Poland as a result of his action.

At Panmunjom, the Polish delegate to the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission asserted that Hajdukiewicz had been "kidnaped" by the American Army and said a strong protest would be lodged.

Hajdukiewicz had asked sanctuary of Col. Harold T. Babb, commander of the air base at Kangnung on the east coast.

"It's my last chance," he told the startled Babb.

Hajdukiewicz, vowing he was an anti-Communist of long standing, was taken to a secret destination.

As told by Babb and an Army release, this was the sequence of events:

Hajdukiewicz, a civilian interpreter with the Polish delegation on the neutral inspection team, had been stationed at Kangnung since Aug. 24. Kangnung is one of five South Korean ports of entry through which troops and equipment replacements are allowed to enter under the armistice terms.

Early yesterday morning, the Polish group went out to the airfield to catch a plane for North Korea. The plane warmed up its engines. It was 5:30 a. m.

At that instant, Hajdukiewicz broke away from his countrymen and approached Maj. Edward Moran, U. S. liaison officer for the inspection team.

The Pole declared he was afraid to go back to Communist-led Korea because of his "long-standing opposition to Communism."

Admirer Loots Star's Penthouse

New York (AP)—Actress Lola Montez told police yesterday her penthouse apartment was "ransacked" of $600 worth of valuables by a burglar who left behind this note:

"Lola please forgive me for recking (sic) your apartment in the manner which I did. I did not know this was your place. I am an admirer of yours. Your very beautiful."

U. S. Assures Pact Partners

Washington, (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles publicly renewed assurances to Australia and New Zealand yesterday that the United States would go to their aid in the event any aggressor attacked them.

Dulles reiterated this pledge as he opened a conference of the three nations on possible new steps to meet the Communist threat in the Pacific area.

At the initial session of foreign ministers, Dulles emphasized the meeting "that only one supreme purpose that of contributing to the preservation of peace."

But, in hailing the Australian-New Zealand-United States (ANZUS) defense treaty which linked the three governments, Dulles said:

"The other day in St. Louis I stated that if events are likely which will in fact lead us to fight we would make clear our intention in advance; then we shall probably not have to fight. This is the feeling which underlay this ANZUS treaty."

Both the Australian external affairs minister, Richard G. Casey, and New Zealand's foreign policy chief, T. Clifton-Webb, cautioned in their opening remarks that a dangerous Communist threat overhangs the Pacific and particularly Southeast Asia, despite the Korean armistice.

Planes Collide While Refueling

Lake Air Force Base, Ariz., (AP)—Two big Air Force planes collided while refueling in flight yesterday and both landed safely. Nine crew members of one plane parachuted onto the sun-scorched southwestern Arizona desert.

Air and ground search parties hunted for the 'chulists between Ajo and Yuma, one of the most desolate areas in Arizona.

The other plane, a B47, with its crew aboard and unhurt, flew to its station, Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, Tucson. The plane was reported extensively damaged.

American Diplomacy Still Holding Its Own In World

Mr. Bowers, Washington correspondent for The New Yorker and contributor to Harper's Magazine, has written two books: "How & Why: The Rise and Fall of American Diplomacy" and, in collaboration with Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., "The General and the President," which concerned Douglas MacArthur's recall from Korea two years ago.

—By Richard H. Revere

American diplomacy is now passing through a major crisis. Our prestige and influence are meeting a severe test in the U. N. General Assembly; they face an even tougher and more consequential one in the Korean peace conference.

We have suffered some setbacks in the U. N., and we are likely—indeed, we are very nearly certain—to come out of the conference with less than the Americans hope for. The chances of achieving Korean unity by talk alone are slim, and our government, seeking to husband its great but not unlimited powers for

Two Children Suffocate In Deep Freezer

Desmet, Idaho (AP)—Two small children climbed into a deep freezer on the front porch of their new home near here Tuesday night and were suffocated.

The victims were Peter L. Sheppard, 6, and his brother Robert Sheppard, 4, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sheppard. They were rushed to nearby Tekoa, Wash., after the father found them but Dr. Vern Cressey pronounced them dead on arrival.

The tragedy brought to 13 the number of similar deaths recently across the country. Within a few days last month five children died at Marion, Ark.; four at Richmond, Va., and two at Haverhill, Mass. All suffocated in unused iceboxes.

Hurricane May Strike Florida

Miami, Fla., (AP)—Hurricane warnings were hoisted in the Bahamas Islands yesterday as a tropical storm with top winds of 95 miles an hour developed suddenly in the Atlantic.

At 6 p. m., the Miami Weather Bureau said the hurricane was centered 700 miles east-southeast of Miami and was moving in a north-west direction at a forward speed of 12 miles per hour.

It offered an immediate threat to the British-owned Bahamas, Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton also said there was a definite possibility it would strike the Florida coast.

150 British GIs Held Sympathizers

London, (AP)—A War Office spokesman said last night about 15 per cent of British prisoners of war in Korea absorbed enough Communist indoctrination to be classified as sympathizers.

Almost 1,000 British POWs have been released by the Communists. More than half are returning on a ship due around Sept. 16.

Three Newsmen Found Guilty

Cleveland, (AP)—Three members of the Cleveland Press' editorial staff were convicted of contempt of court late yesterday by Common Pleas Judge Joseph H. Silbert.

The case involved the taking of a photograph in Judge Silbert's courtroom after the judge had told one of the defendants no pictures would be allowed.

Barrett Launches Campaign For $6,000 Welfare Fund

Cresco—Plans for the 1953 Barrett Welfare Fund drive were outlined last night at a dinner meeting at Tambella's here.

The drive begins Sept. 15; ends on Oct. 15 with a goal of $6,000. Representatives of three major area service clubs attended the meeting last night.

Rev. Harold N. MacMurray, pastor of the Mountainhome Methodist Church and president of Barrett Rotary Club, gave the blessing before dinner.

Andrew W. Lewis, present president of the Welfare Fund, spoke briefly on the background of the organization, its current objectives and the need for continued spirit in the group.

Lewis then introduced John Zink, co-chairman of the 1953 campaign, who gave a pep talk on the general campaign and announced the appointment of group captains throughout the area.

Appointed by Zink were Mrs. Theodore Price, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller, captains for the Cresco area; Elmer Daniels, North Mountainhome; Steve Kosko, South Mountainhome; Helen Megargle, North Canadensis; Sue C. Price, South Canadensis.

Zink, who will head the businessmen's campaign, also announced the following captains in that division: Cresco, Sam Everett and Henry Shaller; North Mountainhome, Phillip Pasquini; South Mountainhome, Thomas Lewis; North Canadensis, Arthur McCambridge; South Canadensis, John Zink.

Near the close of the meeting, Clifford R. Gilliam, first president of the Welfare Fund and the representative of the Buck Hill Community Fund, was introduced by Mr. Lewis.

Funds collected by the Barrett Welfare organization drive are divided among seven township organizations and the member agencies of the Monroe County Community Chest.

The $6,000 goal, when collected, will be split up this way: Barrett playground—$2,400; Friendly Library—$500; Library book fund—$150; Scholarship fund—$400; Neighborhood Association—$200; Girl Scouts—$50 and Boy Scouts—$50. All these are Barrett organizations.

In addition to this $3,750 from the goal, $2,250 will be handed over to the Monroe County Community Chest to help that organization meet its own quota in funds for the year.

The court ordered Miss McDonald arraigned this morning.

The jury heard nine witnesses including the victim's father. The young receptionist confessed the killing to police. She said the younger girl lured her about her broken romance with Joseph Di Rocco, 25, now married to another woman.

Laniel Cracks Down

Paris (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel's government said yesterday it is beginning to crack down on most insistent of the millions of French tax dodgers. Those with tax-free luxury cars and servants' quarters.

Ill Feeling Grows Over Korean Truce

Munsan, Thursday (AP)—A welter of protests from both the United Nations Command and the Communists added tension and growing ill feeling today to the administration of the Korean military armistice.

The gravest complaint was an Allied demand Wednesday for "prompt action" from the Reds in explaining why 4,000 Allied prisoners, including 944 Americans, were not returned in Operation Big Switch which ended Sunday.

"We now demand that you return these people to us or account to us for each of these individuals," said Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, Allied senior member of the Military Armistice Commission.

"Here is the list. We expect prompt action."

North Korean Lt. Gen. Lee Sang Cho reserved the right to answer later.

The Communists seized on an incident involving the striking of a Swedish officer on the neutral nations inspection team by an angry U. S. enlisted man at Taegu, who refused to take an order from the Swedish officer.

The chief of the Swedish group on the supervisory commission, Maj. Gen. Svante Graffstrom, said he considered the incident closed, but the U. S. 8th Army announced the enlisted man would be tried by a special court. The Reds called it a "shocking and infuriating incident" and lodged a protest. Identities of the man and details of the dispute were not revealed.

The Communists' Peiping radio declared that some 138 Chinese Communist prisoners returned in the final exchange were suffering from nervous exhaustion, rheumatism, arthritis, had eczema, serious malnutrition and their "weight was reduced by scores of pounds."

The Reds also renewed charges before the Military Armistice Commission that the Allies were holding back "at least 112" more Chinese Reds and 228 North Koreans who want to return home.

The Communists renewed demands that the Allies return 27,000 North Korean prisoners released last June by South Korean police on orders of President Syngman Rhee.

The prisoners quickly melted into the civilian population. Bryan reminded the Reds that obviously these men were not being forcibly restrained by the U. N. Command.

Washington (AP)—The names of 944 Americans believed at one time to have been Korean war prisoners, but who have not been accounted for, will be made public beginning Friday.

The Defense Department, making the announcement yesterday, said the Communists have been asked to account for 610 Army personnel, 312 Air Force, 19 Marines and 3 Navy men.

Their names will be made public 24 hours after the nearest relatives of each man have been notified that the individual is missing.

Miss Pennsylvania Captures First Preliminary Contest

Atlantic City, N. J., (AP)—An ash blonde in a white bathing suit—Miss Pennsylvania—won the first preliminary competition in the Miss America contest last night.

She is Evelyn Margaret Ay, 20, of Ephrata, Pa., a five-foot eight entry, who topped 17 other bathing beauties in the swim suit division.

For her initial victory, green-eyed Miss Pennsylvania gets coveted points toward the title of Miss America of 1954 in the week-long pageant.

A trim figure, she weighs 137 pounds, has a 37-inch bust and 24-inch waist.

Still to come for the blonde, University of Pennsylvania co-ed are the evening gown and talent phases, with the coveted Miss America crown beckoning at the

Hong Kong Tense After Red Shells Kill 6 On Launch

Hong Kong, Thursday (AP)—The British Royal Navy said today a Red China war vessel fired on a Hong Kong Defense Corps motor launch and there were some casualties.

The British admiralty in London said six men were killed. The incident occurred yesterday at the mouth of the Pearl River Estuary but had been mostly covered up by a news blackout in this British crown colony.

Relations are tense between this British crown colony and neighboring Red China. The news blackout apparently was aimed at avoiding an increase in this tension.

Naval and military hospitals refused to answer questions.

Allies To Stay In Korea Until Peace Is Certain

United Nations, N. Y., (AP)—The seven-nation Commission on Korean Rehabilitation said yesterday the U. N. allies must keep troops in Korea until the country is unified and peace is certain.

Five of the seven countries on the commission have troops in Korea.

The commission's report, prepared for the eighth General Assembly opening next Tuesday, also said South Korea could not hope to develop a self-supporting economy if it had to keep up between 16 and 20 divisions of its own army, even with a high level of foreign economic aid.

Rita Hayworth Weighs Money Settlement

New York (AP)—A showdown appears imminent on whether movie actress Rita Hayworth will approve a divorce settlement from Prince Aly Khan.

Her attorney, Bartley Crum, flew here from Paris yesterday amid a maze of conflicting statements concerning the agreement.

He said he would fly on to Las Vegas, Nev., where the film star has been visiting singer Dick Haymes, her next husband-to-be. Crum told newsmen at Idlewild Airport that this was the picture:

One—The agreement called for Aly to set up a one million dollar trust fund for his and Miss Hayworth's 3-year-old daughter, Yasmine.

Two—Nothing in the agreement would prevent Miss Hayworth from bringing the child up as an American.

Three—Aly and his father, the Aga Khan, did not demand as a pre-agreement condition that the child be brought up as a Moslem. But they wanted her to be "exposed to the teachings of the Islamic sect of the Moslem religion when she reaches the age of seven—the age of reason according to the Moslem religion."

Just before Crum gave this outline, Miss Hayworth was quoted by a spokesman as saying she wouldn't sell her daughter's right to be raised as an American and a Christian.

And in Paris, where Aly was asked to comment on the one million dollar figure, he said: "That's the first I've heard of it."

Dionne Quints End Last Long Holiday Together

North Bay, Ont., (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets have ended what probably will be their last long summer holiday together for years.

Two of the 19-year-old quintuplets, Annette and Creole, left their nearby Corbeil home Tuesday night to resume studies at Nicolet, Que. Later this week two others will head eastward—Yvonne to specialize in art at Notre Dame College in Montreal and Emile to join her two sisters at Nicolet.

Marie will leave for Quebec City in about two months to enter the convent of the Order of the Servants of the Holy Sacrament.

Fire In Prison

Walla Walla, Wash., (AP)—Fire broke out late yesterday inside the walls of the Washington State Penitentiary, sending up a column of smoke that could be seen for miles.

Foresters On Lookout For Fires

Danger of forest fires has been temporarily halted with the recent heavy downpour of rain, but fire watchers in the local district still are on guard against any outbreak.

From the office of E. C. Pyle, district forester, it was learned yesterday the existing condition of tree leaves makes forest fires a constant hazard.

The heavy rains aided Monroe-Pike County farmers in their battle against drought, but forests still are in danger of bursting into flames while the sun draws moisture from trees.

Especially noticed at this time of year is the way trees are dropping leaves, while other leaves already are turning brown. This may cause a drop in the number of motorists who make an annual excursion to the Poconos to see the "flaming foliage."

Out-of-state and local residents are urged to exert care while roaming Pocono Mountains woodlands, and are asked to refrain from tossing cigarettes from car windows.

Conference Scheduled

E. C. Pyle, district forester, currently is mapping plans for a three-day conference of the State forest inspectors, slated to be held next week at Mountainhome.

The conference, first ever held in Monroe County, will occur Sept. 15, 16, and 17 at Pleasant Ridge House. Over 60 State foresters will attend.

Annual Fair Opens Sunday At Reading

Reading (AP) — The 78-acre Reading Fairgrounds has become a sprawling city of trailers and tents during the last three days as thousands of concessionaires and other type workers set up house-keeping on the grounds in preparation for opening day activities of the Reading Fair next Sunday morning.

Meanwhile, downtown hotel managers and operators of motels in the area report heavy bookings for the eight-day period of Reading Fair week which begins Sept. 13 and closes Sept. 20.

A nine-phase fire fighting demonstration will be presented during Sunday night's opening show in front of the grandstand stage.

Another feature on opening night will be the semi-final judging in the Miss Reading Fair beauty contest.

The fair's beauty queen will be chosen from 20 finalists who will be judged on the grandstand stage during the closing show Saturday night.

The night grandstand stage show, Sunday through Friday, will be highlighted by the "Dancing Waters" a display of colored fountain sprays appearing this year at the Reading Fair for the first time.

Replacing the Rosebuds, this year after 11 years consecutive billing here, will be the "Fantasies of 1953," an entirely new dancing review. This review will be staged each night, Monday through Saturday.

British Pledge Aid To Korea

London (AP) — Britain has pledged $72,400,000 this year toward a United Nations program of reconstruction in Korea.

Sir Arthur Rucker, European representative of the United Nations Korea Reconstruction Agency (UNKRA), told a news conference the British contribution will form part of a 139 million dollar fund being raised by next June.

He said 28 U. N. countries and five others promised to support the program.

The United States, by far the largest contributor, has promised to pitch in with at least 65 per cent of the target figure.

The American contribution is in addition to the 200 million promised to Republic of Korea President Syngman Rhee for relief.

The office of Dr. Kurt Philippsberg will be closed from Sat. Sept. 5, to Fri. Sept. 11, inclusive. — Ad.

WHY SMOKEY NEEDS YOUR HELP!

Our forests provide lumber and water. They shelter wildlife, provide food for livestock, offer recreation for all of us, provide jobs and livelihood for thousands. So you can see why Smokey needs your help—our forest resources are certainly worth protecting, worth keeping free from fire. The sad truth is that 9 out of every 10 forest fires are started by careless Americans. And that is why Smokey keeps haunting away for care with fire to keep our precious forests from going up in smoke.

REMEMBER, ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

Bell Company Aide Speaks On 'Your Voice'

Impressions formed by the tone of the voice over the telephone were demonstrated by the use of recordings by Miss Anna Connor, service representative of the Bell Telephone Co. office at Scranton, before the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday afternoon.

The speaker was presented by L. Hayden Jones, program chairman. The demonstration was a humorous takeoff on various types of women's voices, plus professional voice tips that can be invaluable before microphone or over a telephone. Types of pictures tied up with the voices added to the fun.

Miss Connor's topic was "Your Voice and You." The speaker declared the voice tone was just as important as various types of styling. The personality of the person on the telephone was easily discernible. The correct method of using the phone was also shown.

The service club outing and dinner at Camp Taminent Tuesday was highly commended by club members and tribute was paid to Ben Josephsen, the manager, for the manner in which the affair was carried out. The jug Kiwanis golfers won was turned over to D. A. Hansen, sports committee chairman.

President Parke W. Kunkle appointed Dr. L. J. Koehler and Eric Schuchard co-chairmen of the committee to arrange for a ladies' night in November, date to be announced.

A delegation of local club members will visit the Scranton Club next Wednesday noon, leaving the Penn-Stroud Hotel at 11 a. m.

Johnny Eaton, who served as club pianist during the Summer season, made his final visit before leaving for college and was commended by President Kunkle, who also presented him with a gift on behalf of the club.

A meeting of the boys' and girls' work committee, Alan W. Kelper, chairman, will be held at the hotel tonight at 7:30.

Harry D. Uhl, and F. S. Pearson, members of the Pittman, N. J. club, were welcomed as guests, also Phil Moore, New York City, and Joseph S. Price, Canadensis.

School Bells Ring

The pursuit of knowledge goes into high gear again this week, with school bells ringing for many tomorrow and this week, with school bells ringing for many all over the region.

Grade schools, high schools, and colleges will welcome the students thirsty for learning, if that be the accurate description of those who move with lagging steps in the direction of the teachers, with about 37 million Americans or close to a quarter of the population heading for the books.

This number is more than two million in excess of last year's enrollment, itself a record high, and educators are scratching their heads trying to figure out just where all these seekers after enlightenment are to be accommodated.

In the Poconos and its neighboring communities there are few difficulties in this respect, for the school directors and those others who plan for the future of our youth have been able to keep above the rising tide of zesty scholars.

Shortages of teachers we apparently have with us always, for even though the colleges turned out 47,500 new qualified teachers this year, the net shortage in elementary schools alone is expected to exceed 72,000.

Anyway, the summer period is over for the students, the carefree period when the greatest worryment was to decide what to do next, and now comes the struggle for education. Peace be with you, little men and women; you won't believe it now, but there'll come a day when you will wish you were back in school.

Trees Are Coming Back

For several hundred years after the white man landed on the shores of North America, he spent a large part of his time chopping down trees.

Now, however, he is putting a lot of them back. He has discovered that, in certain places, growing trees are useful. They keep flood waters from charging down mountain slopes, they shade picnic parties and they afford welcome relief from the stone and steel of built-up sections.

Now man has found a new use for trees. According to the American Public Works Assn., trees and bushes planted along high-speed roads will reduce the traffic noise and make it possible for people to live near these thoroughfares.

This isn't a theory; it has been successfully tried in several parts of the country. It suggests "ribbon parks" between the lanes of parkways to provide scenery and shade for motorists, and foliage along the roadside to screen nearby residents from traffic noise.

For older arteries, where the right of way is narrow, intensive planting may be used for noise abatement, the Public Works Assn. points out. It says evergreens seem to be the best noise-deadeners.

That appears to be a development that should be useful in the Stroudsburg area.

Street and highway officials should look into the thing.

The Once Over

Something We Ate, No Doubt

All is fair in U. N. and TV wrestling. As they get back from the Labor Day week end and start carrying about world events instead of love tales, this is about all the average American can make from that (pre-holiday) ruling of a United Nations high court.

To the effect that a jockey hired to ride your horse refuses to say whether he works for another stable he can't be fired for words to that effect. The U. N. tribunal stood firmly for the Big Claim-Up and ordered the re-statement of eleven, and as much as $10,000 "damages" for seven other Americans, ousted at Uncle Sam's request for refusing to say whether their hearts belonged to Daddy Lenin. In the East River ball club it is okay if the players on the home team refuse to reply to the question "Are you playing for the visiting team?"

"Membership in any political party is not in itself a justification for dismissal in the absence of other causes," the U. N. tribunal rules. "A decision based on such premises is a violation of the inalienable rights of U. N. staff members." To which millions of Americans, taxed to pay most of the U. N. bills in the fight for survival, come up with a loud "JIZZAT SO!"

Under the ruling Uncle Sam could be represented by boys and girls who carry Communist cards, birthday greetings from Malenkov, Valentines from Molotov and "in the absence of other causes could not be fired" (Eric, another aspirin. In plain words what the tribunal says is that you and I are expected to pay taxes to support an organization which keeps on its payroll people who won't say whether or not they are working for a foreign country which strives to block every hope and desire of America, and the United Nations for which America does most of the dying.

Get a load of this from the U. N. tribunal: "The United States has failed to prove its argument that the U. N. staff members who refused to answer its loyalty questions are guilty of SERIOUS MISCONDUCT OR UNSATISFACTORY SERVICE."

So telling Uncle Sam to go jump in the lake ain't serious?

Continuing on the U. N. staff while refusing to answer the simple question, "Are you a member of the Communist Party?" is SATISFACTORY . . .

(Nurse, another pill, we are getting groggier.) Thanks. Our head is clearing now and we begin to understand. No matter what eggs are being hatched it is illegal to look under the hen . . . And if the man you hired to carry the flag is removed from the parade because he won't say whether he sells hammers and sickles as a sideline, he is entitled to from $10,000 to $100,000 "damages." Avarah-h-h-h!

A committee of U. N. has asked the Chinese Reds and North Koreans whether they want the peace talks in Los Angeles, Geneva or San Francisco. . . . Our idea, after observing Communist routines, would be to hold them on the beach where Alice-in-Wonderland walked with the carpenter, the walrus and the oysters.

Did you hear about the fellow who was deported from New York last week for whistling Cole Porter and Irving Berlin tunes during the Rodgers & Hammerstein testimonial celebration? . . .

Damon Runyon, Jr., who looks like the picture of his dad, makes top reading in his story, "Father, Dear Father." . . . Says Damon's real first name was Alfred, that the "Damon" was the family name of his mother . . . What we didn't know was that Runyon began as a printer's devil in Pueblo, Colo., worked as a bellhop and jockey at one time and was the youngest soldier in the Spanish-American War. . . . A great success story in the Horatio Alger pattern is that of Francis S. Murphy, retiring publisher of the Hartford Times, Connecticut, who began there 50 years ago at $3 a week. . . . In his 20's, while working days on the paper, he had his own orchestra and played engagements seven nights a week. . . . Andy Tufts, a motorcycle cop in Lynn, Mass., won last week's $1,000 for picking the best of three acts on "Judge For Yourself," and is reported so happy he hasn't given out a ticket since.

ZIPPER TROUBLE

McCarran Nevada Machine Faces Life-Death Fight

Robert S. Allen is in Nevada. In his opinion, Nevada today is about the tame and peaceful political struggle going on in Nevada. It is being led by a fellow newspaperman who came within a breath last year of taking the powerful machine of Senator Pat McCarran and is still courageously and heroically battling the incumbent boss and his henchmen.

—by Tom Mechling

Reno, Nevada. — The McCarran political machine, which has interruptedly controlled the politics, elections and economy of the State of Nevada for more than a decade, is fighting a last-ditch battle for survival.

And because it knows it is in a life-or-death struggle, the last in next year's campaign when all state officers are up for election, will be an especially bitter one.

The battle will determine whether the McCarran machine's grip on Nevada is broken, or continues its stranglehold.

The 1954 election will mark the test of whether the machine can pick up the pieces from its near-annihilation last year, when the aged and ailing Democratic Senator was forced to openly join forces with his Republican colleague in a desperate effort to give the machine the semblance of victory.

But in resorting to this extreme measure, the machine lost its most potent weapon, the legend of invincibility, the claim that had been persistently cultivated by its partisans that swift economic and political reprisal would befall any who dared buck the boss.

This legend became far more powerful than the machine. It scared otherwise public-spirited people from opposing the organization. Every personal mishap or business failure which befell an opponent or even a lukewarm supporter was labeled "an act of McCarran."

The potency and relentlessness of the boss and his machine were inflated far and wide, and became rooted to truly terrifying proportions. Why, McCarran was even credited with accidental power failures that interrupted radio speeches of his opponents. But if the 1952 campaign did nothing else, it proved to thousands of Nevadans that an aroused citizenry can beat any political machine.

Once again upright citizens proved that they have the sheer weight of numbers on their side in any state and in any community. If they will fight for their rights and interests, the machine is still far from invincible.

Its life-or-death licensing power over Nevada's gambling casinos goes to a tremendous cudgel in the coming fight.

That will truly be the "battle of the century" as far as this state is concerned.

Seventy per cent of the earth's surface is covered by oceans that have an average depth of two miles.

The name Eskimo is said to have come from Indian neighbors to the south and to signify people who eat their food raw.

gled-dod pistol against a double-barreled shotgun. If the machine couldn't beat its foe with one barrel in the primary, then it would blast him with the other in the general election.

In 1950 the McCarran machine quietly switched to elect a Republican for Governor, who soon thereafter staffed his office with henchmen from the Democratic Senator's office in Washington. But in the 1952 election, the usual undercover switch by the McCarran machine was for the first time, dragged out in the open for even the most disinterested voter to see.

Both Republicans and Democrats were given a full and clear view of this travesty of the two-party system.

The McCarran machine is reaping the whirlwind from fair-minded voters of both parties for its years of political chicanery. And once-faithful machine men are feeling which way the wind is blowing.

The Democratic State Chairman has openly repudiated the machine. In what amounted to a public confession, he admitted he was hand-picked for the job and steamrollered through at the state convention by McCarran forces. Other machine politicians also are wondering how they can get out of the way of the scorching wind blowing from the grass-roots.

Nationally, Adlai Stevenson, titular head of the Democratic Party, has repudiated McCarran as "the man who used to be a Democrat." National Chairman Steve Mitchell has publicly linked him with "reactionary elements in the Democratic party."

And Republican Attorney General Herbert Brownell has smashed McCarran's tight grip on Justice Department patronage.

Currently, the McCarran machine is frantically trying to save the Democratic office-holders who supported the GOP ticket last year.

The machine poured large sums into the re-election campaign last spring of Las Vegas City Commissioner William Peccole. Peccole was swamped. Subsequently he was indicted for extortion and bribery by a grand jury, on the basis of charges brought out during the campaign.

Each new disclosure of the dealings of the McCarran machine is opening more eyes and blowing a hotter wind against it. But though that hot wind is blowing hard, the machine is still far from licked.

Its life-or-death licensing power over Nevada's gambling casinos goes to a tremendous cudgel in the coming fight.

That will truly be the "battle of the century" as far as this state is concerned.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

We Have Rats And Progressives At Home, What We Have At Home We Have In Army

In every large body of men there are sick, tricky persons who try to find small advantages for themselves at the expense of others.

In the Korean War, these jobbers of influence were correctly nicknamed "rats," although that seems to be too good a term.

What our sons suffered at their hands in Korea is only now coming home. They spied on other American soldiers. They advised the Russians and the Chinese Communists how to force Americans to sign statements. They spied on Americans who spoke unfavorably of Communism and the Russians.

Now some of the rats are being punished from the natural desire of our boys to teach them a lesson. It seems altogether unnecessary. It would help the rats to understand the morals of our boys if the boys were permitted to beat them up, to dunk them in the ocean, to make them salute the American flag for hours on end. A little vengeance goes a long way with a rat.

But what our military should do is to court-martial the rats under any articles they find and then to publish the findings, including the names of these villains. We ought to have their names. Their photographs should be published, particularly in their local communities, so that all men may know who they are and what they did to other Americans.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

A British veteran, released from Chinese prison camps, gave this advice for the treatment of any returned soldiers who might have been won over by the Communists.

"Get some liver and onions and a bottle of beer into 'em and they'll be British again."

Perhaps without realizing it, this soldier may have found the solution to the whole Communist problem, or at least to a very important angle of it.

Communism, without going in to its many ramifications, is fostered primarily by hunger.

But it is not only the hunger for liver and onions and beer. That is only physical hunger.

There is another hunger, which may well cause Communism, because Communism offers a fake satisfaction for that hunger which is strictly spiritual.

Communism is all things to all men. Whatever is wrong with your body or your soul, Communism promises to right it. Whatever you yearn for, Communism will promise to bring it.

I think that that is the reason why so many members of frustrated minority groups become Communists. Being in the minority they feel slighted by the majority. So they try to bring about a new regime in order to become the majority, or in other words, to become first class citizens.

Unfortunately, the whole world has become too material. We pay too much attention to refrigerators, deep freezers, radios, television, air conditioners, the things that cater to the body rather than to the mind and the soul.

What literature of today can compare with the perfection of our motor cars? What music can equal the excellence of our television sets? (Please not that I am speaking only of the excellence of the SETS, not of the programs!) What modern paintings have the explosive appeal of the hydrogen bomb?

Yet, the people are hungry, yes, starved, for spiritual food. The best sellers in the book stores are religious books. Every symphony concert is crowded to the doors.

Churches are once again filled to capacity.

But in endless sequence our writers, composers, painters turn out trash. So that they can buy the refrigerators, the television sets and the expensive automobiles.

There was a time when every town and village and every city in America had its band concerts in the parks. What has become of them?

Wherever we went on our recent vacation trip I saw dilapidated band stands being used for children to play in or to store park equipment. There used to be a time when almost every American family had its piano, and when every child was taught to play it. The waltz, with its melodious lilt, has been replaced by contortions called Samba and Monha and Conga.

Yet, the spiritual yearning still exists in the human being as strongly as it ever did. If it were only satisfied as much as the body is being nurtured!

It would be too bad if our souls, too, should become artificially refrigerated. Because Communism thrives on frozen souls.

Try and Stop Me

Boss Joe Stalin had occasion to enlighten a Chinese disciple on some aspects of Communism. "Comrade," queried Joe, "how would you go about making a cat eat a 'red-hot pepper'?" "Well," said the worried disciple, "I could force it down the cat's throat, or I could stuff a fish with the pepper and give it to the cat." "It's obvious," frowned Stalin, "that you are not truly conversant with Communist ideology. Your first method would be coercion; the second, plain deception. And you know we never coerce or deceive anyone." "Then—how would you do it?" begged the disciple. "I would rub the pepper on the cat's tail," stated Stalin. "When it started to burn, the cat would turn around and

Schools Report Increased Enrollment On Opening Of Term

Schoolrooms Overcrowded With Pupils

Students in ten Monroe County school districts went back to school yesterday.

It was the same story in nearly all townships and boroughs: increased enrollment and too little space.

The ten districts in which school re-opened yesterday morning were Delaware Water Gap, East Stroudsburg, Hamilton, Middle Smithfield, Mount Pocono, Smithfield, Stroud, Stroudsburg, Tobyhanna and Tunkhannock.

Both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg school systems showed increases over last year.

East Stroudsburg Supervising Principal Carl T. Secor reported a total enrollment of 1,463 pupils in the borough's four schools. The figure represents an increase of between 60 and 70 students over previous years.

A break-down of the total shows there were 715 students enrolled in the borough elementary training school located on State Teachers College campus. This includes 40 kindergarten pupils.

An enrollment of 536 pupils was tallied for the elementary school on N. Courtland St., adjoining the high school building. Another 40 kindergarten pupils were enrolled.

Junior High School enrollment totaled 361 during the day while the East Stroudsburg High School will have 351 students for the new year.

First faculty meeting of the year was held at 3 p. m. with Secor in charge.

St. Matthew's Parochial School, (not included in above totals) East Stroudsburg began its 1953-54 year with a total enrollment of 350 pupils yesterday.

Here, also heaviest enrollments were noted in the first two grades of the elementary school program.

Total enrollment at Stroudsburg's three schools hit 1,356 by day's end, according to Superintendent Earl F. Groner.

Groner gave the following figures for enrollments in the school system: Stroudsburg High School, a total of 381 students; junior high school, 369 students.

More school registration brought in 279 pupils in grades one through six. Ramsey's enrollment so far is 327, Groner said.

Included in the grade school totals are 44 kindergarten pupils at Ramsey and 46 at Ramsey.

Both Secor and Groner said the first day's registration and class activity had proceeded smoothly.

At Smithfield Township Consolidated School, the enrollment reached 257 during the first day of school.

Supervising Principal Allen Sterner said heaviest enrollments were noted in the first and fifth grades. In the former, it will be necessary to run two first-grade classes this year, Sterner said. First grade enrollment is 48.

Smithfield's school was originally built to house only 180 students, Sterner said.

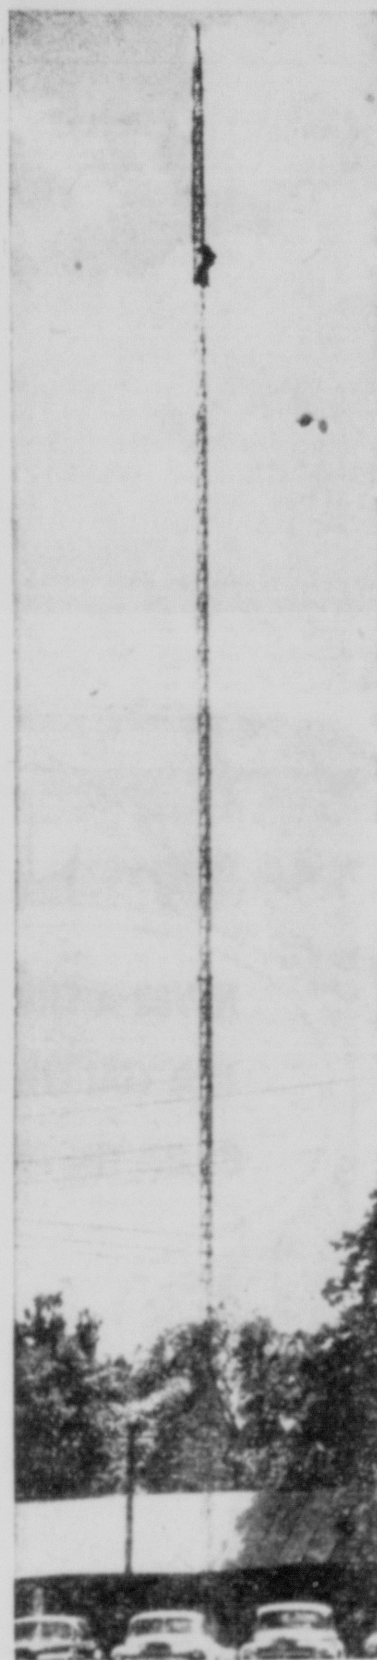

Early grade pupils also accounted for the heaviest enrollment at Middle Smithfield. In grades one and two an enrollment of 28 pupils was noted on the first day.

Total enrollment for Middle Smithfield Consolidated School on opening day was 125.

For Tobyhanna Township Consolidated School, an enrollment of 230 or more students may be expected this year, according to C. Willis Luning, supervising principal.

Yesterday's initial enrollment showed 137 pupils signed up for grades one through six; more than 50 enrolled in the high school.

The figures represent an overall increase of between 10 and 12 per cent for the school. Grade school enrollment went up about 20 percent, Dunlap said, while high school enrollment was down about 10 percent.

Stroud Township school at Clearview showed a decided increase with 45 more students enrolled for the new year than had been in the school for the 1952-53 school terms.

A total of 401 pupils signed up at Clearview yesterday, Raymond P. Harding, principal of Stroud schools, said last night.

Analemick school enrollment — also part of the Stroud system — remained nearly the same as previous years with a total of 62 pupils on its opening day.

None of the figures released yesterday may be considered final enrollment totals for the school year, however. Still to come are some children in each district who could not enroll on the opening day due to circumstances beyond their control.

Final totals for all Monroe County districts will not be available until next week.

225 Freshmen Register At Local College

State Teachers College enrolled one of its largest freshmen classes in recent years this week with more than 225 beginners entering the school.

Dr. Joseph F. Noonan said last night a total enrollment of 732 students had been reached at the close of yesterday's registration for upper-classmen.

The total includes all four grades of the college. Freshmen enrollment was conducted Tuesday with a "get-acquainted party" for beginning students held that night.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors were registered for the new school year yesterday while freshmen tests were held in the school gymnasium.

Classes for all students will begin at 8 a. m. today. The first convocation of the new school year is slated for 10 a. m. in the auditorium.

Dr. Noonan expressed great satisfaction with the current college enrollment, calling the prospects for the 1953-54 school activity period highly promising.

One Steer Found Shot

Tobyhanna — One more missing steer was accounted for last night by State police. It had been shot. It was one of a remaining 12 freed when a cattle truck upset near here Sunday night.

Mount Pocono State police said they were called to pick up a dead steer on "old Route 611."

Troopers took a wrecker to the spot, hauled the shot steer back to their home base, put him in deep freeze to await appearance of his owner, Clarence Guyer, Allentown, police said.

Identification of the man who shot the steer was not known last night, police said.

The animals escaped from an overturned truck at 3 a. m. Sunday and headed for the dense forest regions just north of here. One steer was killed in the truck accident; two others shot.

Volunteers still are on the prowl for some evidence of the steer's movement. Now and then tracks are picked up, checked and double checked.

The two cows tied to trees along old Route 611 here also have failed to lure the steers.

State police of Mount Pocono barracks have been ordered to destroy any of the animals found on county highways to prevent any recurrence of accidents similar to one Sunday night. In that accident three persons were hospitalized after their car hit another attempting to avoid killing a steer that wandered onto the highway.

American Held In Fatal Beating

Great Yarmouth, England, (AP) — A young American service man was detained yesterday in connection with the killing of a Colorado airman, Milton O. Martinez Jr.

He was being held by U. S. authorities who declined to release his name. It was disclosed that he was stationed at Bentwaters jet fighter station, near Ipswich.

Martinez, who comes from Alamosa, Colorado, was beaten to death while weekendling in the resort. He was an airman second class and was attached to the U. S. 85th Bomber Squadron in nearby Sculthorpe.

Captain Epsaro, 11-Year Air Force Veteran, Has More Than 7,350 Flying Hours To Credit

A native Monroe County man has more than 7,350 flying hours to his credit in 11 continuous years of service with the U. S. Air Force.

Capt. Austin F. Epsaro, graduate of East Stroudsburg High School and Franklin and Marshall College in 1931, was the subject of a recent article in Stars and Stripes, the official Army newspaper.

While at East Stroudsburg High, Epsaro played basketball and baseball. He joined the radiology division of the New York Department of Health after college.

Capt. Epsaro's air time was amassed during three years he served as an Army instructor, in combat in Europe during World War Two and later with the Philippine Scouts in the Far East.

He was one of the original civilian flying instructors for Army aviation and taught some of the first pilots in the early aviation units. He was commissioned in 1943.

During the war he served with the 87th Div. under Gen. W. W. Ford for two years. In the Spring of 1944 his observation plane made a forced landing in enemy territory behind the Siegfried Line. Hasty repairs were made and he escaped before the Germans discovered him.

After combat he returned to the States with the Department of Air Training, as a flight commander of instructors for the Army's standardized courses.

In 1949 Epsaro moved to the Philippines with the Philippine Scouts, utilizing Army planes for transportation and ambulance service to circumvent roads still harassed by snipers.

In 1950 he joined the 82nd Airborne Div. at Fort Bragg, N. C., and a year later ferried light observation planes from New York to California for shipment to Korea.

Then he joined the First Infantry Division and has been stationed in Wuerzburg, Germany, ever since.

Sales Tax Offices Set Up By State

Harrisburg (AP) — Supervisors of nine of Pennsylvania's 10 new regional sales tax branches will take over administration of the state's 1 per cent levy as soon as office space becomes available.

A tenth supervisor — for the Northumberland County District — is still to be named.

David Thomas, of Wilkes-Barre, has been named supervisor of District 3, with offices in Wilkes-Barre.

This district comprises ten counties: Monroe, Pike, Wayne, Carbon, Luzerne, Lackawanna, Susquehanna, Wyoming, Bradford and Sullivan.

Northampton County, together with Berks, Lehigh, Bucks and Montgomery, will be in District 2. James Roche, Reading, will serve as supervisor at the district headquarters in Reading.

"We'll move in as soon as the offices are ready for us," said State Revenue Secretary Otto F. Messner.

In the meantime, the Revenue Department's four field offices in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre and Warren have been handling the bulk of the tax administration along with the department's main office in Harrisburg. Messner said the field offices will not be affected by the new regional offices.

The district offices will receive tax payments, Messner said, but the payments will be forwarded to Harrisburg for processing.

There will be additional sub-offices in cities and larger counties where sales tax routine may require additional staff.

Salaries of the supervisors is $5,600 a year, except for Philadelphia supervisor James Doyle and Pittsburgh supervisor George Gleason, who will each receive $6,000.

Porch Roof Of Corrugated Fiber Glass

Glass you can't ordinarily see is getting new jobs almost daily, making homes more livable, more durable, more economical to operate.

This has nothing to do with windows. It is glass in fiber form, so tough that it is replacing steel in some places, so soft that it is used to stuff cushions, so fine and hardlike that it stops heat waves when used as an insulator.

You can do a lot of things with glass around your house without venturing up in the proverbial fish bowl. Of course, some people like glass in every form as a building material. There's David H. Brown, a retired Canadian undertaker, who is building a house in Creston, B. C., out of 75,000 empty embalming fluid bottles.

Even if you haven't accumulated that many bottles, you can make many uses of glass. You can use fiber glass in corrugated plastic form for a porch roof to keep the rain out and let the light in. You can use large sheets of this material for partitions and room dividers to block the view, yet let light through. You can build shower stalls with it or use it for shower doors.

Bathtubs are being molded out of fiber glass reinforced plastic. Weighing only about 17 pounds, they are much lighter than pressed steel, which in turn was much lighter than regular cast iron tubs. Chairs, pipes, tanks, even boat bodies are made of this material. Curtains and drapes woven from fiber glass yarns won't shrink, sag or burn. And you can get fiber glass window screens.

Now gypsum wall board is being reinforced with fiber glass strands in place of the usual cellulose fibers to give this widely used dry wall material better durability and greater resistance to cracking and shattering. Cooperating in the development of this new wall board were the Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp. and the Certain-teed Products Corp.

One result of mixing this form of glass with gypsum plaster has been the first single-layer construction gypsum board to earn a one-hour fire rating from the Underwriters Laboratories, Malcolm Mayo, Certain-teed executive, says. The new product shows up to 80 per cent greater shock resistance than conventional boards without the fiber glass reinforcement.

"The fibers of glass hold the gypsum core together more cohesively and increase the wallboard's resistance," Mayo says. "This reduces incidence of damage in shipment, application and service."

If you're remodeling a house, or finishing off the attic rooms, and plan to use dry wall construction, you should be able to get the new type wallboard for the same price as previous types and in standard thicknesses of 1/2, 5/8 and 1 inch. No claim is made for increased insulation, since the fibers used are different from those in insulation batts and blankets, being spun primarily for strength.

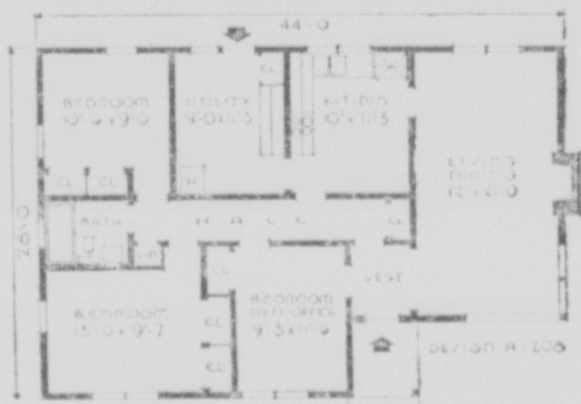

Protect Dahlias From Frost

It is often possible to save dahlias and other choice but tender plants for several weeks by protecting them from the first frost.

If you have covered them be sure to take off the covering as early as possible in the morning to lessen the danger of breaking down the plants by the weight of the wet covers. Very often late plantings of vegetables can be saved by smothering them with the hose before the sun gets to them.

Paint Brush Guard

When painting ceilings or the underside of shelves, dripping paint may be avoided by inserting the paint brush handle through a half of a large rubber ball. This cuplike attachment will catch the paint as it runs down the handle and prevent it from soiling hands, sleeves and floors.

Questions And Answers

I plan to redecorate the walls in my living room. There is a fireplace on one wall and a bay window with a window seat in the adjacent wall. I had thought of painting three walls a soft gray and using a bright wallpaper on the fireplace wall and inside the window bay. What is your opinion? The rug is maroon, one chair is slipcovered with a floral pattern on a maroon background and the other is plain maroon. What colors would you suggest for the davenport slip cover and for the draperies?

P.F.—Your idea of papering the fireplace wall and the window recess is very good. A wallpaper pattern in maroon, gray, gold and light green on a dark green background would be nice. For the davenport slip cover I suggest green and for the draperies, light green.

My living room and dining room are separated by an archway. The furniture is mahogany and I would like to use chaise longue draperies. What colors would you suggest for the walls and woodwork and for upholstering a couch and a pillow-back chair? The rug has an all-over floral pattern.

C.D.—I suggest the following: walls and woodwork, gray; couch, green; pillow-back chair, red.

Thorough Closing Of Summer Home Will Save Trouble

Careful precautions taken when closing the summer vacation home will prevent damage by weather, vandals and rodents.

The plumbing should be arranged so that all pipes can be drained by closing two or three valves and opening others. If steam or hot water heat is used, the entire system should be drained. Water should be siphoned from the toilet bowl and drained from plumbing traps.

Provide solid, heavy board panes to fit tightly over windows and doors and bolt them on the inside. For the front door, use a solid panel that is fastened with a strong padlock.

A new hydraulic pipe pusher enables plumbing contractors to install pipe underground without tearing up lawns, driveways, floors and pavement. Rubber Floor Tile Needs Proper Care

Tile floors are the newest rage in home decor. They are found in every style house from cottage to mansion in foyer, dining room and living room. They are popular too, in bedrooms, particularly where furnishings are in Italian, French or a combination of traditional and modern styles.

These floors are easy to care for whether asphalt, vinyl or rubber.

Rubber tiles are lovely, but many homeowners ruin their nice patina by improper care, such as scrubbing. They may be kept clean and shiny by observing these rules suggested by rubber flooring experts.

One—If the floor becomes very dirty or if something spills, clean with a dampened mop of cold water.

Two—Give floors a thorough cleaning and waxing once or twice a year. For special cleaning use specially prepared solutions and rinse with a mop of clear water.

Three—When dry, buff the floor to remove invisible film that may be left and apply a thin coat of water emulsion flooring wax. Buff it, applying a second coat of wax, and buff again.

Four—If certain spots suffer from a good deal of traffic, simply clean and re-wax worn areas, not the entire floor.

Five—A little steel wool rubbed over burned spots in the tiles will renew them making them look good as ever.

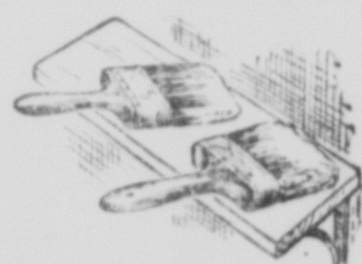

For ordinary mopping of asphalt tiles warm water and mild soap are suggested. The tile is rinsed with clear water and should be dried at once. It is important to make sure to rinse the tiles, the experts say. Other don'ts are the use of caustic soaps, gasoline and mineral spirits.

Asphalt tiles are washed once a month with a water-emulsion wax. One coat is applied in the morning, the second in the afternoon. To keep asphalt floors looking their best wash and buff them between waxings. Wax should be completely removed once a year.

Vinyl tiles do not need waxing but frequent scrubbing will keep them attractive.

Patching Insulation

Cracks and holes in the insulation around boilers and pipes can be patched with asbestos cement. The insulation should be dampened slightly before the cement is applied.

Use Car Jack To Straighten Warped Board

When repairing a building, it is often necessary to straighten a warped board or plank. If it is pushed into place, a joint may be loosened. Carpenters have exchanged the following idea in the American Builder, a trade publication.

Nail a block securely against the sill or frame about 18 inches below the crooked board. Set an automobile jack on the block and jack the board firmly into place again. Nail it firmly before removing the jack.

Even veneer boards can be strengthened in this way, because the pressure will hold the nail in a horizontal position while the work is going on.

Seven Rules For Electric Blanket Care

That new electric blanket is going to be a great comfort these coming winter nights, but you must know how to take care of it, says experts of the Chatham Blanket Co., issuing the following rules:

One—When patting the blanket on the bed, do not fold over at the top. Tuck in only the unwarmed part at the foot.

Two—Wash as you would any fine blanket, by hand, using lukewarm water, mild soap, lots of suds. Leave in suds no longer than three minutes, rinse thoroughly, squeeze out and stretch gently. Hang blanket lengthwise over line to dry and change the position occasionally.

Three—Do not dry clean the blanket, as this will injure the electrical parts of your blanket.

Four—Do not use pins or needles.

Five—Do not store in naphthalene moth flakes.

Six—Do not use any extra covers.

Comfort Determining Factor When Shopping For Chair

When you're shopping for a chair, remember that chairs are made to sit in and that we all spend more time sitting than we do standing, so comfort is the prime requisite of a good chair with style a secondary consideration.

While the construction is highly important to comfort, the size, proportions, and design of a chair are also determining factors.

The trick in selecting a satisfactory chair is to sit in a lot of chairs right in the store before you decide on one so that you can compare the comfort of various types.

While you're doing this, ask yourself these questions—

One—Is the seat long enough or is it too long?

Two—Is it too low or too high? Remember that very low chairs often force one's knees up to chin height, and that they are also difficult to arise from easily and gracefully.

A chair that's too high leaves the petite woman with her feet dangling in the air or straining to touch the floor with her tiptoes.

Three—Are the arms a comfortable height? Is there enough over your blanket. When the switch is turned on, do not put anything at all over your blanket—no pillows or quilts, and do not fold the blanket over on itself, as this will cause uneven warming.

Seven—When you get up in the morning, be sure to turn your blanket switch off.

NYU Glee Club To Train At Pocono Pines

Music comes to the Poconos every September when the New York University Glee Club assembles for its annual pre-season training camp at Pocono Crest, Pocono Pines. On Sept. 12, 55 men whose voices have been carefully selected will arrive for a week of strenuous rehearsing—the 17th annual NYU Glee Club Camp.

When their classes convene in New York on Sept. 21, they will have rehearsed for about thirty hours (this would require ten weeks during the school year) and will have already given their fifth concert of the season. This concert, which represents the fruit of their week's labors, is an annual attraction to Pocono visitors.

It will be given Thursday, Sept. 17, at 8:30 p. m. in the Pocono Crest Casino on Route 940. Tickets may be purchased at the box office on the night of the performance.

The first major concert of the year, the specific occasion for which the men will be preparing, is the Glee Club's 24th annual Town Hall concert. As their guests at New York's noted hall, the NYUers will have the Radcliffe Choral Society, an outstanding organization of college women from Cambridge, Mass.

The conductor of the Radcliffe group is G. Wallace Woodworth, professor of music at Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges, who is well known for providing his superlative college choral groups for many of the performances of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, as well as for conducting that organization itself in its summer series.

The director of the New York University men, and the originator of the idea of glee club camps, an idea which has spread to other colleges, is Alfred M. Greenfield, professor of music at NYU. Prof. Greenfield, in addition to being well known in the Poconos for his annual concerts, is nationally famous as conductor of the Oratorio Society of New York, and as a composer and organist. He is widely known for his guest appearances for choral festivals throughout the country.

Prof. Greenfield does not accomplish his objectives single handed. He brings with him a staff of experts which makes his Glee Club a veritable college in the Poconos. With him are Robert Cutler, instructor in music at NYU and assistant conductor of the Glee Club; John Powell, instructor in voice at NYU, and well known concert baritone who has made appearances throughout the country and over the radio; Malcolm Foster, student at General Theological Seminary of New York, and conductor of the NYU Law Center Male Chorus; Dr. Robert A. Fowles, professor of language at NYU, the lingual expert who, in his student days was himself a member of the Glee Club; and Dr. William H. Stahy, chairman of the Classics Department of the university, who for many seasons served as activities director of the camp.

Stubble Mulching Aids In Soil, Water Conservation

By A. Norman Dietrick
(SCS Technician)

Stubble mulching or crop residue management can play an important part in soil and water conservation. This operation, while very well known in the western wheat growing areas of low rainfall, has not come into common practice in the East.

It is, however, a very useful conservation tool for reducing erosion and run-off, and conserving soil moisture.

Stubble mulching is simply the discing into the top few inches of soil any crop residues such as straw, corn stalks or potato vines instead of plowing them under. By leaving this material on or near the surface it acts as a mulch to dissipate the blasting action of the rain drops and to keep the surface more porous.

It decreases evaporation and protects the young seedling of the new crop. Actually this operation merely copies nature, or rather works with nature to keep the soil covered and protected at all times. Observe how quickly weeds or grass will spring up on freshly disturbed soil—nature's attempt to cover it and protect it from the elements.

By incorporating this organic material into the surface of the soil instead of burying it, food elements are made available to the new crop as decomposition takes place.

The common practice of raking and burning crop residues robs the soil of these benefits. It is just as wasteful as it would be to haul several bags of fertilizer onto each acre and then set them on fire.

In discussing this conservation measure recently David Griffith and William Baumgartner, both of near Kresgeville, stated that they usually disc their potato fields after harvesting the crop. This practice is well suited to potato ground since a good seed bed can quickly be prepared for wheat or rye and the new crop sowed before cold weather.

Holiday Accidents Claimed 574 Lives

By The Associated Press
Labor Day weekend accidents killed at least 573 Americans.

A survey showed that 405 died in traffic mishaps, 70 were drowned, and 99 succumbed from other accidents.

The figures set no records. The highest toll for a Labor Day holiday was 658 from all accidents, and 461 in traffic, in 1951.

The 1953 holiday's traffic toll was considerably lower than the 440 deaths estimated by engineers of the National Safety Council.

HAPPIER LANDINGS THROUGH RADAR

GUIDING AIRPLANES to a safe landing at an airport requires a precision-like teamwork between the pilot and the control tower operators. Striving always to improve this teamwork, technicians have developed a new and improved surveillance radar system at the Norfolk, Va., airport. This system aids Civil Aeronautics administration controllers in directing each approaching plane via radio through an efficient traffic pattern. The radar screen shows the location and flight path of every aircraft flying within a 30 to 60-mile radius of the airport. During periods of poor visibility, the radar helps the controllers to space and control the arrival of inbound planes so they can be "fed" into the approach control system at the most efficient rate. The new radar system also has been installed and awaits commissioning by CAA at 16 other major airports in nation, while seven others are under construction.

Radar operator (right) watches screen for flight paths of aircraft in vicinity of control tower.

Peace Hopes Expressed On Rosh Hashanah

Washington (AP)—President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon expressed hopes for peace yesterday in new year's greetings to Americans of Jewish faith.

Sundown services at synagogues and temples ushered in the Jewish new year 5714. The Rosh Hashanah, or day of judgment, opens a 10-day period of spiritual inventory for Jews that culminates in Yom Kippur, the day of atonement.

From his summer White House in Denver, Eisenhower issued a statement extending "my warmest greetings" for the Jewish New Year and adding:

"Among the greatest lessons your history can teach, as the world struggles toward peace, are the patience and good will that have so frequently seen expression in the thousands of years of Jewish life.

"May this new year bring to peoples of good faith everywhere the reassurance that more tranquil days are indeed near, and that the citizens of all nations will learn to live together with the understanding and harmony that God-loving people so fervently desire."

Nixon, in a statement issued here, said everyone approaches a new year with "a prayer for peace, serenity of soul, happiness and security for his family and his people."

"May it come to pass soon," he said, "that there will be planted the lasting roots for understanding and brotherhood among people of all lands and all faiths, so that mutual trust will replace doubt and persecution."

Jews Begin Observance

The ten-day period of spiritual inventory began for Jews at sunset yesterday, when they ushered in Rosh Hashanah, the New Year 5714.

Rabbi William Fierwerker conducted opening services at Temple Israel at 7 p.m. last night.

Also known as the High Holy Days or the Ten Days of Awe, the period ends with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, the holiest

AT THE HOME OF OLD ISRAEL in New York, Elukim Waldman, 88, raises the Shofar and sounds the traditional notes as he rehearses for the ceremony of Rosh Hashanah, the Hebrew New Year. The year 5714 in the Jewish calendar was ushered in at Sundown yesterday.

Eisenhower Truman To Attend Vinson Funeral Rites Today

Washington, (AP)—The body of Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson lay in state yesterday as President Eisenhower and former President Truman prepared to fly here for the funeral today.

Long-time friends and associates of Vinson, who died suddenly of a heart attack Tuesday, paid their respects to the 63-year-old jurist in a flower-banked funeral chapel a block from the White House.

Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, bishop of Washington, will officiate at the rites at Washington Episcopal Cathedral with members of the Supreme Court serving as honorary pallbearers.

Eisenhower is scheduled to arrive here about 6:45 a.m. today. He will go directly to the White House where he will confer with Vice President Nixon and staff aides.

Flying both ways, he will return day of the Jewish calendar from sunset Friday, Sept. 18, to sunset Saturday, Sept. 19.

Robie Notes Effectiveness Of Prayer

Evangelist L. C. Robie told an audience at the Gospel Tent Cathedral, Lennox St., South Stroudsburg, "what things so ever you desire, when you pray, believe that you receive them and you shall have them."

His remarks were based on "Amazing Faith" taken from Mark 11:34.

"To get things from God," he said, "one must have a changeless faith that God is, no matter what the weather, the circumstances, the conditions, and that this God will never fail to reward those who do trust Him."

"The law of answer to prayer, faith for which comes to birth in the Bible, represents the most positive law of the universe."

Mr. Robie will discuss tonight "The greatest, yet almost the shortest sentence in the Bible." Friday's sentence will be "Five things the Bible will do for anyone."

Services will be held every night through Sunday at 7:30.

In Denver, Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary to the President, said Eisenhower would have absolutely no comment on speculative reports that either Gov. Earl Warren of California or Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York were likely choices for the appointment.

The President has only a little more than three weeks to name a successor if he wants the appointee to be on the job when the Supreme Court opens its fall term on Oct. 5.

Number Of Polio Cases In Pennsylvania Running 18 Per Cent Below 1952 Figure

Harrisburg (AP)—Pennsylvania's reported polio cases so far in 1953 are 121 below the case figure at the same date last year, the Department of Health disclosed yesterday.

So far this year, 553 cases have been reported—some 18 per cent below last year's 674 cases by Sept. 9.

Dr. James D. Purvis, of the Health Conservation Bureau, pointed out, however, that the next two weeks would be the peak period for polio.

"We want to wait until the next two weeks are over," Purvis said. "It's too early yet to ascertain the real value of gamma globulin."

Purvis added that the effects of gamma globulin—a human blood derivative effective in combating the crippling effects of polio—could not be determined until the polio season ended.

Allegheny is the county hardest hit by polio this year with 79 cases reported to date. The state's largest city, Philadelphia, though, is in the number six spot with 39 cases.

Other hard-hit counties are Westmoreland with 47 cases and Fayette with 38. Mercer County has thirty.

State Road Costs Reach Record Level

Harrisburg (AP)—The State Highway Department said yesterday that highway construction and maintenance cost the state a record 74 million dollars for the first eight months of 1953.

The department said its program had been held up, however, by steel shortages, delay by the Legislature to re-enact the state's two-cents a gallon gasoline tax and a wet spring.

Of the figure spent on the roads, $62,570,000 came from the Motor License Fund, while the remainder came from the State Highway and Bridge Authority.

The authority funds will be repaid in annual rental payments from the motor license fund, the Highways Department said.

Miss L. Catherine Ervey Is Bride Of Benjamin P. Hissam

Miss L. Catherine Ervey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ervey, of 39 N. Green St., East Stroudsburg, became the early Fall bride of Benjamin P. Hissam, son of Mrs. Helen Hissam and the late Benjamin Hissam, of Milford, Pa., Saturday, Sept. 5.

The impressive ceremony was performed in the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church at 2 p. m., by Rev. Frank Wingerter, pastor, in the presence of many relatives and friends.

The church was attractively decorated with white gladioli on the altar and white flowers and satin bows on the ends of the pews.

Miss Helen Ininger performed suitable nuptial music before and during the ceremony. Soloist was Miss Connie Beers, who was heard in the numbers, "I Love Thee," by Craig and "Because," by Handel before the conferring of the rites and "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte during the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory slipper gown with tight bodice, long pointed sleeves, sweetheart neck, full skirt with long flowing train. She also wore a Juliet cap of satin and seed pearls with a fingertip veil of nylon tulle and white satin slippers. She carried a cascade bouquet of gladioli, white rose buds and ivy.

The matron-of-honor was Mrs. Jack Fisher, of Fayetteville, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Mrs. George Kirch, of Waynesboro, and Miss Charlotte Hissam, of Milford, sister of the bridegroom. The flower girl was Miss Suzanne Kirch.

The matron-of-honor was attired in a copper-colored tulle dress with sheath neckline, full skirt over accordion pleated drop skirts, velvet Juliet cap with ruffled studded veil.

The bridesmaids were similarly attired, but in green in color and Juliet caps. The flower girl wore a long pink embroidered net dress over tulle, matching headpiece and carried a basket of pink rosebuds. They all carried cascade bouquets of gladioli. The matron-of-honor's flowers were white and the bridesmaids' yellow with Easter leaves.

William Hissam, of Milford, Pa., was best man, the ushers being David Hissam, also of Milford, and Jack Fisher, of Fayetteville.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue lace and chiffon dress, navy blue velvet hat, navy shoes, white gloves. The mother of the bridegroom chose a black lace and crepe dress and black velvet, hat, black shoes and white gloves. They both wore bouquets of pink rosebuds.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church recreation room for about 125 guests. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by miniature bride and bridegroom. The table decorations consisted of tall flowers and candles.

The newlyweds left under a honeymoon trip of undisclosed destination. For traveling, the bride wore a navy blue nylon dress, red shoes, hat and tan, white gloves and white gladioli corsage. On their return they will make their home in Milford, Pa.

Mrs. Hissam was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School and Mansfield State Teachers College. She previously taught in the Hackettstown, N. J., schools and will teach in the Port Jervis, N. Y., schools, the coming term.

Mr. Hissam, a graduate of the Milford High School, is employed by Cicerone, of Milford.

Mrs. Deacon Tells Of Her Visit To Egypt

Mrs. Bryon Deacon, of Park Hill Falls, who has had a most prominent business career, was the main speaker before the Monroe Council of Republican Women at the Penn-Stroud Hotel ballroom yesterday afternoon. She was presented by Mrs. Alford Meyers.

Mrs. Joyce Pedersen, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting. She read a letter from U. S. Senator George D. Mahony, of Nevada, thanking the council for the flowers sent him while a patient at the Monroe County General Hospital.

Mrs. Floyd Bachman, chairman of the committee, read the list of officers nominated and elected for the coming term. They follow: President, Mrs. Irving Kiffin; first vice president, Mrs. Russell Scott; second vice president, Mrs. Paul Lloyd; Cor. Secy, Mrs. John Kitchin; Rec. Secy, Mrs. Eleanor Randolph; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Kresge.

Mrs. Meyers, chairman of the legislative committee, conducted the election. Mrs. Meyers also discussed a letter received concerning the complete history of the accomplishments of the Pennsylvania legislature the past year. The sales tax was also explained.

Mrs. Deacon gave her experiences while in near East and Egypt. Accompanied by her husband they traveled in the Mediterranean area and various parts. Their first port was Alexandria where they were held up an entire day by rough seas. Traveling across the desert they ran across a new highway being built.

During their travels they saw the pyramids where travel is on camels or horse-drawn carts. They visited the City of Bejrut and flew to Jerusalem and saw the rolling country.

They saw a narrow strip of land called "no man's land" which divides Palestine. Differences between Arabs and Jews made it necessary for one to be guarded, she said. One-fifth of Palestine is Arabian. Visitors to Jerusalem portion do not have very good accommodations.

There is one Protestant church in Jerusalem, she said. They visited places in the Holy Land. The stable is underground where Jesus was born, she said. There was a great ceremony going on when they visited the stable so that it was difficult to realize the scene of Jesus' birth. They visited the Garden of Gethsemane.

The River Jordan was described as a very plain looking stream. It was possible to purchase a bottle of the water. Mrs. Deacon said she was distressed at the sight of the Arabs who had to leave Jerusalem and were homeless.

Mrs. Deacon said their driver at the time of Stalin's death said "that is a great pity; Stalin was a great man."

The speaker said one could look at people in the streets of Egypt and note the difference between their condition and ours due to different standards of living. Even so, she said, coming upon a woman listening to the cry of a sick child her emotions were no different; deep down inside there is a uniform feeling.

The following were named members of the auditing committee: Mrs. Clyde Psie, Mrs. Eli Travis and Mrs. John Shatwell.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

She may be only six today, but a very young lady of my acquaintance has already learned a thing or two about presents, so it isn't strange that all she desires for her birthday is "something from WYCKOFF'S, of course." Something from Wyckoff's to entrance a first grader! What an easy order to fill — with a walking doll, perhaps; a miniature "Alice in Wonderland" dress, and some jewelry designed for another little Kate Greenaway just for a youngster who treasures her very own accessories. Something from Wyckoff's — a bundle bath in her very own brand or some games. It isn't a question of WHAT to buy. It's a question of just where to stop buying! . . . First thing that popped into my mind when Walter Wyckoff asked me to mention our very complete line of men's work clothes was the old song that goes "men must work and women must weep." Personally, I can't see what a woman has to weep about in this day and age when those rugged hard-working garments she'll be laundering are color fast, fully sanforized, and guaranteed to wear like iron. "Casey Jones" is the name these garments bear. Casey Jones — a name as unbeatable as the many fine features of styling that make these real WORKING clothes. Deep, roomy pockets, tailored-to-body contour, rivet reinforced pockets, eight ounce denim — these are just a few of the features one finds in Casey Jones garments. Strike up the band, and let's all sing the praises of this venerable gentleman who is symbolic of all men who do their best and wear the best. . . . You have until September 25th at midnight to mail your entries in the Reader's Digest $30,000 contest. It isn't difficult either, so here's to you and the dreams that will come true with any one of those big cash prizes. You'll find an entry form on the counter in our stationery department. Help yourself, but remember to buy the September issue of the magazine, because you must read and evaluate the articles, listing your favorites in proper order. It's a contest in which you can't lose — every page you read brings a reward in itself. . . .

The other day I described on the air an adorable pixie hat of silk braid and velvet tubing that was published in Sunday's American Weekly, and is being shown in our up-to-the-minute millinery department. Since then quite a few customers have tried it on and admired it. But while everyone agrees that it's dashing, smart, no one has had the courage to buy it. It's drastically different — that's why. It has sugar and spice in its styling, and would cause heads to swirl. It's shaped like a megaphone — with the large end fitting securely over the head and the small end zooming out in back at what appears to be a precarious, gravity defying angle. Streamers of tubing dangle down. To wear it you must be very young — or very young in heart; you must be able to laugh at life and, maybe, a wee bit, at yourself. It's a captivating, flirtatious "dunce in a lifetime" hat. And, confidentially, it's "madge" . . . My bell went on yesterday and I answered to find myself paged by Fran Meredith, head of our display department. "I'm preparing an international window," he explained. "You know — articles from all over the world, and I remember a phrase you used once about this being an international store. What was that again?" After a moment it came to mind. "It was," Wyckoff's — yesterday's New York store, cosmopolitan store of today. . . . Later I went down to see the window, and it's dazzling. Ike Pledges Continued Aid To Adenauer

Denver, (AP) — President Eisenhower yesterday pledged continued American support to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's policy for strengthening West Germany, uniting Germany and liberating the 18 million East Germans under Communist rule.

In a congratulatory message on Adenauer's sweeping election victory, the President assured the chancellor of the U. S. government's future cooperation "for the strengthening of a free Europe and the Atlantic community and for the ending of the present artificial division of Germany and the totalitarian (Soviet zone) regime imposed on 18 million of your countrymen."

The defeated West German Socialists charged in Bonn meanwhile that Adenauer's sweeping election victory gave him "authoritarian powers" that would "endanger democracy" in the federal republic.

The Social Democrats acknowledged that they had failed in their aim to become the biggest party in West Germany. They won 150 seats, running a poor second to the Christian Democrats 244.

But the analysis pointed out the Socialists had nevertheless gained a million extra votes over the previous poll.

Nine Named To Jury In Murder Case

Canandaigua, N.Y., (AP) — Five more jurors were chosen yesterday for the first-degree murder trial of Fred Eugene McManus, the 19-year-old Valley Stream, L.I., youth who has admitted five killings.

Nine jurors now have been selected. Four were seated Tuesday. Justice H. Douglas Van Dusen of State Supreme Court directed that a full panel of 15 jurors be called for today.

McManus is charged with the pistol killing of William A. Braverman, 19, of Rochester, a Robert College freshman, last March 27. Authorities say Braverman was the first of five victims who fell during McManus' four-day, cross-country escapade with a teen-aged girl friend.

McManus pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. Conviction would mean a mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair.

McManus told police he shot Braverman to get the Rochester youth's bright red convertible.

Afterward, McManus said, he picked up 16-year-old Diane Marie Weggeland in Rochester and headed west. The couple was arrested near Dubuque, Iowa.

McManus had a .45 caliber pistol he had purchased while on duty with the Marine Corps.

Police said McManus told them he had shot four other people during holdups that netted him less than $60.

McManus has been pronounced sane, but the defense has indicated that the youth's mental responsibility would be a principal issue in the trial.

Diane has been placed in a women's prison as a wayward minor.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 1. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Million-Dollar Brain Charts Retail Trends

New York, (AP) — The first use of Bennington Rand's million-dollar electronic brain, UNIVAC, to forecast retailing trends was announced yesterday by the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

UNIVAC's five thousand electronic tubes sifted hundreds of facts from retail sales data for the 12-year period 1941-52 to show how the customers in the nation's stores will distribute their buying in 28 lines of merchandise during 1954, the ANPA said.

It added that UNIVAC's 1954 calculations practically duplicate the 1952 seasonal buying patterns.

The 1952 consumer patterns are tabulated in the 1953-54 edition of the 'Annual Time Table of Retail Opportunities' released yesterday by the ANPA's Bureau of Advertising. This volume, together with UNIVAC's predictions, was issued to the bureau's 1,000 member newspapers and is available to retailers through them.

The ANPA said UNIVAC's trend forecast is based on the assumption that there would be no war, abrupt recession or switch in the 12-year pattern.

To reach its figures, UNIVAC sifted voluminous figures on department store sales patterns, department by department to find the "most nearly normal" seasonal buying patterns, then charted the percentage of annual sales to be expected in each month of 1954.

It took UNIVAC only three and one-half minutes to calculate all the trend lines, a job that would have taken a human brain more than 200 man hours, the ANPA said.

Judge Thinks Dr. Kinsey's Mind 'A Bit Pornographic'

Pittsburgh, (AP) — John D. Martin, a visiting Federal Judge from Memphis, Tenn., said yesterday that a mind of the sort that Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey has is "a bit pornographic."

The second Kinsey report, dealing with the sexual behavior of American women, came up as Judge Martin was deciding the fate of a confessed would-be bank robber.

After three brothers and a sister of Vincent S. Stillwagon of Glenside, Pa., testified that he is a good man despite his attempted bank robbery, Judge Martin asked where Stillwagon's wife was.

A probation officer said Mrs. Stillwagon was "highly emotional" and therefore stayed at home.

"A wife should stick by her husband through hell and high water," said Judge Martin. "I don't hold any brief for a wife who would not be here when her husband is in dire need. A wife should not be afraid of a little emotion."

"The Stillwagons have been married 19 years," said the probation officer.

"With the divorce rate so appallingly high, I think even 10 years of married life speaks well for them," said the judge. "Dr. Kinsey isn't going to cut the divorce rate down. Personally, I think the old boy doesn't know what he is talking about. A mind of that sort, to my notion, is a bit pornographic."

Judge Martin conceded that "Dr. Kinsey has a right to make his studies," he declared.

"He can do a lot of harm in broadcasting them as he did."

For Stillwagon's try to loot the First National Bank of Berlin, not far from his southwestern Pennsylvania home, Judge Martin imposed a five-year sentence, suspended it, and put Stillwagon on probation for five years.

Nicholson States Decision To Bow To Time, Diabetes After Current National League Season
Milwaukee, (AP)—The major league baseball career of big Bill Nicholson, slugging Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder who made a comeback after a diabetes attack in 1950, will end this season.
The news didn't come from the management, but from Nicholson himself who admitted "you never think of this day when you first break into the game."
Nicholson was a valuable pinch hitter and relief outfielder during the 1950 campaign when the White Sox captured the National League pennant. He suffered a serious attack of diabetes a month before the campaign ended and missed the World Series.
He had participated in the 1945 series with the Chicago Cubs setting a record that still stands, driving in eight runs in seven games.
Hospitalized by the disease, he rallied in later months and came back to the Phillies for the past three seasons, but has seen little action recently except in emergency roles.
Nicholson, here with the club to play the Milwaukee Braves, said he expects his unconditional release at the end of the season. As a 10-year veteran, that would make him a free agent.
"It had to come some time," he added a bit unhappily.
"Of course, every player wants another year. But this is the end for me. Between the diabetes

Giles Fails To Reach Furillo In Effort To Settle Dispute
Cincinnati, (AP)—Warren Giles, president of the National League, tried all day yesterday to reach Carl Furillo, Brooklyn outfielder who has said he will "get" Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants the first time he sees him.
Furillo, who suffered a smashed left hand as players and umpires tried to separate Durocher and him during a tussle in New York September 6, could not be located by telephone.
Reportedly he had gone to his home in Stony Creek Mills, Pa., near Reading, after doctors said his hand would not get well in time for any more play this season with the pennant-bound Braves.
Giles had intended to look upon the hassle as a typical ball players' fight and ignore it, until Furillo's declarations came to his attention.
Quote
"I'll get him the next time I see him," Furillo was quoted as saying in the clubhouse shortly after Durocher and he clashed.
"Just tell him I'll be there," was Durocher's rejoinder.
The feud, which has been blowing for about five years, came to the fighting stage after Furillo was hit on the right wrist by a pitch by Babe Gomez, Giant hurler, in the second inning on September 6.
Furillo, currently leading the National League in hitting with a .344 average, started toward the pitcher's mound, then moved on to first base.
Suddenly he dashed toward the New York dugout and Durocher came out to meet him. They grappled and fell. Other players separated them and in that mixup Furillo's left hand was trampled. Both Durocher and Furillo said they had not struck a blow.
President Giles reversed himself after learning that Furillo did not consider the incident closed.

Seven Cities Reported Open For Brownies
By Jerry Liska
Chicago, (AP)—The American League soon will study a list of seven cities Bill Veeck says have proposed to take over the St. Louis Browns' franchise.
Included is Baltimore where a wealthy lawyer yesterday said he is working on plans to raise a million dollars to buy into the Browns and shift them to that city, possibly minus major domo Veeck.
Houston, Kansas City, Montreal, Toronto and Minneapolis-St. Paul as a combined site also are reported by Veeck ready to give the pauperized Browns a new home.
Postponed
A scheduled meeting for tomorrow at New York between Veeck and a four-man league committee appointed to help in a possible shift of the Browns was cancelled yesterday because several committee members could not attend.
However, league president Will Harridge said the conference would be held as soon as possible, possibly next week in Chicago.
Veeck hustled around Chicago yesterday phoning Harridge and huddling with lawyers and Brownie stockholders.
Harridge and Veeck did not mention specific cities interested in getting the Brownie franchise. But earlier Veeck told sports columnist Vincent X. Flaherty of the Los Angeles Examiner that the seven cities had asked him to state their offers to the special league committee.
The committee is composed of "Chuck" Comiskey of the White Sox, Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox, W. O. Briggs of the Tigers and Dan Topping of the Yankees.
"The four of us will analyze Veeck's data and determine whether interested cities are financially able to accept a major league franchise," said Comiskey. "There are many other factors, such as minor league territorial rights to consider. This would not be as simple as was the Boston Braves' shift to Milwaukee this year."
Study
Findings of the committee then would be studied by the full league membership, possibly during the World Series.
Baltimore's latest nudge into the Brownie franchise picture came from Clarence W. Miles, prominent attorney, who told Paul Menton, sports editor of the Evening Sun, he hoped to announce in a week or 10 days he has raised his million dollars.
Miles declined to say whether Veeck, who now has been a showman's boss in two major league cities—Cleveland and St. Louis—would be included in the shift.
Veeck has an agreement with the city of Baltimore for rental of the Municipal Stadium, now being remodeled to seat 60,000. Sports short Bill was defeated by his league last spring in an effort to move the Browns to Baltimore then.

Araujo To Meet Davis Tonight
Boston, (AP)—The twelve-postponed 10-round boxing bout between George Araujo of Providence, R. I., and Teddy "Red Top" Davis of Hartford, Conn., will be put on tonight at the Boston Garden with the former's New England light title at stake.
Heat Spell
The recent heat spell forced the sponsoring Callahan A. C. to delay the bout both times and, as is usual with such postponements, the gate receipts are expected to be disappointing. The bout will not be televised or broadcast.

Classic Loop To Roll
Monroe Classic League keggers swing into action today at Harmon's Recreation at 7 p. m. Schedule follows:
Alleys one and two—Red Top Tavern vs. Jack's Market.
Alleys three and four—Deerhead Inn vs. Bill Allen's.
Alleys five and six—Square Bar vs. Eagles "A".

Relief
Walter Kellner, younger brother of the A's Alex, hurled the last two innings of the first game and escaped without allowing a run. He struck out two, but gave up three walks.
Young Kellner reported to the Philadelphia club yesterday from Williamsport in the Eastern League.

Seven Cities Reported Open For Brownies

Chicago, (AP)—The American League soon will study a list of seven cities Bill Veeck says have proposed to take over the St. Louis Browns' franchise.
Included is Baltimore where a wealthy lawyer yesterday said he is working on plans to raise a million dollars to buy into the Browns and shift them to that city, possibly minus major domo Veeck.
Houston, Kansas City, Montreal, Toronto and Minneapolis-St. Paul as a combined site also are reported by Veeck ready to give the pauperized Browns a new home.
Postponed
A scheduled meeting for tomorrow at New York between Veeck and a four-man league committee appointed to help in a possible shift of the Browns was cancelled yesterday because several committee members could not attend.
However, league president Will Harridge said the conference would be held as soon as possible, possibly next week in Chicago.
Veeck hustled around Chicago yesterday phoning Harridge and huddling with lawyers and Brownie stockholders.
Harridge and Veeck did not mention specific cities interested in getting the Brownie franchise. But earlier Veeck told sports columnist Vincent X. Flaherty of the Los Angeles Examiner that the seven cities had asked him to state their offers to the special league committee.
The committee is composed of "Chuck" Comiskey of the White Sox, Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox, W. O. Briggs of the Tigers and Dan Topping of the Yankees.
"The four of us will analyze Veeck's data and determine whether interested cities are financially able to accept a major league franchise," said Comiskey. "There are many other factors, such as minor league territorial rights to consider. This would not be as simple as was the Boston Braves' shift to Milwaukee this year."
Study
Findings of the committee then would be studied by the full league membership, possibly during the World Series.
Baltimore's latest nudge into the Brownie franchise picture came from Clarence W. Miles, prominent attorney, who told Paul Menton, sports editor of the Evening Sun, he hoped to announce in a week or 10 days he has raised his million dollars.
Miles declined to say whether Veeck, who now has been a showman's boss in two major league cities—Cleveland and St. Louis—would be included in the shift.
Veeck has an agreement with the city of Baltimore for rental of the Municipal Stadium, now being remodeled to seat 60,000. Sports short Bill was defeated by his league last spring in an effort to move the Browns to Baltimore then.

American Diplomacy Holding Up

community and the nation, always involve compromise, give and take, delicate balances of gain and loss, are loath to understand that international politics can't be scored like a baseball game. They seem to feel that unless we sweep every series with no-hit games we have been held.

Manifestly, we will sweep no series, and we will never see a no-hit game. Yet in balance, American foreign policy, even in the grim perspective of this late date, can be pronounced a success. In making such a judgment, of course, one must be clear as to what one means by American foreign policy. A man would be a fool to deny that world Communism made spectacular gains from 1944 to 1948 and that all those gains were losses for us.

In those unhappy years, however, we lost because we had no policy. We were eager, our people as much as our government, and probably even more so, only to liquidate the late war. We had ended the Nazi menace, and one member of a time was enough for most of us. The Soviet threat was clearly apparent, but only a handful saw it, and this was not because Communist agents put blinders on us. It was because we wanted out. There are none so blind...

Still and all, we became aroused in 1947 and 1948. Looking backward, that was pretty good time. It took the British and French, to say nothing of ourselves, a lot longer to wake up to the Nazi threat. It took them and us so long, in fact, that there was no way of meeting it except by all-out war and devastation.

Americans awoke to the Soviet threat in time to grapple with it by means that have been costly enough but not so costly as global war. And since our awakening—since that is, the formation of our policy—most of the major victories have been ours. In Europe, the Soviets have made no irreversible gains since 1948. Recently they have suffered great losses. It may be going too far to attribute this entirely to our policies, but there is no doubt that the Marshall Plan, the Truman doctrine, the Berlin airlift, and NATO have helped a good deal.

In Asia, things have been not quite so good. Communism completed its conquest of China in 1949. But only the credulous, those who approach world affairs as if all hits and errors can be ticked off on the scorecard, will say with assurance that this was a failure of American diplomacy. And we did have to resort to war in Korea. But that war is, we trust, over now, and even though we haven't conquered the enemy, we have contained him, which was the object of the war.

We don't have a policy for meeting Soviet power before 1948. Since then, we have had one, and if we examine its record calmly and with an appreciation of history's unwillingness to assume the shape and pattern of a ball game, we can say to ourselves that it has been good because it seems to have worked so far, anyway. You can't ask much more of a foreign policy. Right now, the odds on freedom are favorable. No sure thing, but better than even money.

About three-fourths of U. S. foreign land is privately owned.
